

The training triangle

Information is telling them what they need to know. Basic biblical and practical information. It is easy to think you are trained when you have the information. Nothing could be further from the truth!

Imitation is letting them see your life and learn from your skills, wisdom, successes and failures. This is the apprenticeship model. This is how Jesus trained his disciples. This is the most neglected yet vital stage

Innovation – letting them have a go at things with increasing levels of responsibility and autonomy. This where the learning continues, with failures and successes. This interacts with the stages of the discipleship square.
